

JANESVILLE HONORS SOLDIERS OF THE FIRST W. N. G.

THOUSANDS GATHER TO SPEED CO. M

HUNDREDS FLOCK TO CITY FROM SURROUNDING COUNTRY TO SEE SOLDIERS ON THEIR WAY SOUTH.

GIVE CARLOAD OF FOOD

Magazines, Tobacco, Gum, Candy, Fruit, Cookies and Other Edibles Contributed to the Boys.

Janesville today honored its citizen soldiers who were enroute from Camp Douglas for "somewhere in Texas" for finishing touches of the training in their country preparatory to sailing for France. It was a semi-foliday in three o'clock on, the music of the band, the interested crowds that thronged the streets and crowded about the five troop trains as they arrived in order, the first at 2:40, the waving of flags and the cheering greetings all evidenced the honor with which these soldier boys are held.

Mayor Fathers and his committee of citizens who had arranged the details of the celebration for it, which that form, had a busy time. Not only did the trains have Company M of Janesville—the home boys—on board, but also the boys of Company B of Fort Atkinson, C of Whitewater, with the Delavan platoon, Companies H of Monroe and L of Beloit, and visitors from all these cities were on hand to say good-bye and bring with them last presents for the departing troops.

The first train was scheduled to arrive at 2:40. It was composed of the supply company of Madison, with its mountain of equipment. Number two train, with Company M, Janesville, headquarters, Madison, and the machine gun company of Oconomowoc, was next to arrive at 3:40. Number three train contained Company B of Fort Atkinson, Company C of Whitewater with the Delavan platoon, Company D of Milwaukee, and arrived at 4:40. Number four train has Companies E and F of Milwaukee, H or Monroe and the sanitary company of Milwaukee, and will arrive about 5:40. Number five train has Company O of Neenah, Company A of Milwaukee and Company L of Beloit and arrives at 6:40. The trains all pull up to the Chicago and Northwestern freight depot and remained in the city about ten to twelve minutes.

As each train arrived the Bower City band burst forth into patriotic music and thousands thronged the side of the cars to say good-bye and good-speed. All places of business practically closed their doors from three o'clock on and their clerks took part in the demonstration. Many business houses had their windows decorated and thousands of tiny flags made their appearance as though by magic.

At the trains Chief of Police Champion had his officers stationed so as to give the passengers an opportunity to get off the trains, autos being kept back. Sheriff Bob Whipple was on hand to aid and a score or more of the volunteer workers and members of the committee of reception tried to make it possible for relatives to be the first to greet their soldiers rather than permit everyone to crowd to the sides of the train.

Eugene Flanagan, who was taxied to the city by the packages and gifts of Company M. The work of the committee composed of William Taylor, chairman, Claud Dulin, Eugene Roessing and William Grunzell, had done their work well and from early this morning until three o'clock when the packages were loaded on the truck to be taken to the train, there was a constant stream of visitors, both military and civilian, arriving at the Commercial Club rooms. The gifts for the individual members of the company were piled together and the general food gifts and tobacco was packed separately and distributed after the train left Janesville.

These packages contained everything in the line of eating and smoking one could imagine. The most suspicious look to some of the packages came from houses, though cakes and home made candy was contained. Captain Caldwell stated they carried a surgeon on board each train so they were permitted. The tobacco committee under the leadership of William P. Langdon had an ample load of "smokes" and Robert Rocker's window also gave a generous donation. Apples and fruit were also noticeable as well as many cereals, crackers, cheese and staples that will prove most acceptable to the travel ration provided by Uncle Sam.

The sum of $66.50, the proceeds of the dance held in the new store of the J. M. Bestwick and Sons store yesterday night was handed over to Captain Caldwell to be added to the company fund. There were also numerous other gifts to the same fund by individuals as well as many personal contributions to the three officers of the committee.

I am sending you the order that will be in force in our movement south. The order is as follows:

Memorandum.

1. Pursuant to the provisions of Special Orders, Central Department, and Special Orders, Headquarters, 1st Wisconsin Division, this command will encamp at 11 a.m., Sept. 24th, for Camp McArthur, Waco, Texas.

2. The following rules and regulations governing the breaking of camp, loading, entrainment, conduct while en route, detrainment, and making camp at destination are published for guidance of all members of this command.

Breaking Camp.

1. Baggage, with exception of equipment mentioned, will be carried on person will be loaded Sunday. Trunk cases, valises, cases and surplus kit bags will be packed ready for loading Sunday morning. street Sunday or Monday without the permission of the 1st Sergeant. Camp is to be broken and bivouac camp made Sunday and all men must be available for their share of the work. Squad and tent leaders will be responsible for the presence of the members of their squads.

3. The first sergeant will make the necessary details under a non-commissioned officer while loading and unloading baggage.

4. The following equipment will be carried on the train by each man: rifle, bayonet, belt, haversack, cartridge box, shelter half, rain jacket, pole pine, rope, blanket, roll straps, suit of underwear, two pair of socks, towel, tooth brush, soap and comb, mess pan, knife, fork and spoon. All other property clothing, etc., must be packed in lockers, suit cases or surplus kit bags. All clothing items will be plainly marked with the name and company number of the owner. Suit cases must be tagged and marked with name and company of owner. Surplus kit bags will be tagged with squad number by squad leaders. This must not be neglected if confusion in unloading is to be avoided.

5. Mattresses will be emptied at a place designated by the first sergeant and the mattress covers and mosquito bars turned in the supply sergeant for packing.

6. The first sergeant will have a detail of extra duty men dig a hole 4x4x4 on the right of the incinerator Sunday afternoon for the disposal of all refuse before leaving camp. Squad leaders will be responsible for having tents carefully packed as soon as the tents are struck. They will also study carefully the method of folding the pyramidal tent as given in the I. D. R. which will be followed. Tents not neatly folded and tied will be refolded. The supply sergeant will inspect each bundle of tentage before loading.

Entrainment.

1. Day coaches will be provided for the trip.

2. There will be approximately 30 men to the car. This will mean 4 full squads and 2 sergeants to a car. Squad leaders will see that their men

AVIATOR CHANGES SEAT HIGH IN AIR

Rantoul, Ill., Sept. 24.—Officers of the army aviation school here declared today that the seat of Major Maxwell, who while flying a seatless aircraft had an elevation of more than 1,000 feet, was the first of its kind ever accomplished in the United States.

Major Kirby yesterday ascended alone in the rear seat of his machine, using a stick control when the airplane was a quarter of a mile in the air, and flying a mile a minute, he climbed to the front seat and took the wheel control of the machine, making the descent without mishap.

TRADE HEADS WILL AID LIBERTY LOAN

New York, Sept. 24.—More than 100 trade committees, each under chairmanship of a leading exponent of business in New York City, are being formed to help float the second Liberty loan. Each divisional chairman will name a committee of the most influential men in his own trade, and each of the trade committee will have an experienced bond salesman to direct the selling.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE BILL IN CONGRESS BOthers MEMBERS

Washington, Sept. 24.—Shall a special house committee on woman suffrage be created?

This question was before the house today for determination in the form of a report presented by the rules committee recommending the creation of such a committee with prospect of favoring the bill. The Senate has a similar committee. Support of the committee's recommendations is urged in a letter received today by house members from Mrs. Maude Wood Parks, congressional chairman of the national American woman suffrage association.

"We know," she wrote, "that the 9,000,000 woman voters of this country in nineteen of our states, expect this recognition of women's political interest."

The letter concludes with the statement that the association has no connection with a small group of women in a different organization who have adopted the tactics of "picketing" the white house.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Assistant Secretary Post of the department of labor has written to Senator Calder informing him that the department heartily approves his bill to provide for naturalization in three months of approximately 600,000 aliens, who have signified their intention of becoming American citizens, but who under existing regulations must wait two years before action is taken on their declarations of intention.

About half of the 600,000 declarants are of military age and would be reliable for ministerial military service under terms of the pending aliens draft bill.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Conferees on the war tax bill resumed work today with the session adjourned. Exemptions, excess profit rates and exemptions apparently depending largely upon the action of the senate members on the house compromise proposal which is said to provide for important concessions by both sides.

En Route.

All members of this command are cautioned against loud and boisterous conduct on the train. Yelling, cat-calling and similar conduct will be guarded against while passing through stations along the route. Personal remarks to bystanders, especially young ladies, will not be tolerated. Remember that you are soldiers and gentlemen, that the reputation of your organization and your standards is in the hands of each of you and govern yourself accordingly. Nothing reflects more to your discredit than ungentlemanly conduct.

2. Without doubt our train will stop in Janesville for a short time. It will not be possible to permit anyone to leave the train at this station nor will anyone be allowed to board the train.

Good-bye must be said from the window. If one man is permitted to leave the train all will want to go which will obviously be impossible so all must be treated alike in this respect.

LUTHERANS HEAR ORFORDVILLE MAN

Reverend O. J. Kvale Occupies Pulpit of Norwegian Lutheran Church on Yesterday.

The Reverend O. J. Kvale of Orfordville occupied the pulpit of the Norwegian Lutheran Church at both morning and evening services yesterday. In Norwegian he preached at ten o'clock and at eleven a sermon in English. Both were eloquent and logical in their presentation of their message and Rev. Kvale was greeted with large audiences.

The church was prettily decorated with fall flowers on yesterday and the music for the services was rendered by the organist, Orvin Anderson. There is no chorus choir at present in the church, the congregation furnishing its own voices.

This pretty little church has been recently improved, the altar rail and arrangements for the pulpit have been changed and redecorated and the interior remodeled so as to be very much more attractive than formerly. A strong congregation has gathered behind the local pastor and are earnestly seconding his efforts in this church.

Rev. Thorson preached at Albion yesterday but arrived home on last evening.

PREPARE PLANS FOR ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN AT THE 'Y'

Absolutely Removes Indigestion. One package proves it. 25c at all druggists.

The third annual Inter-City Membership campaign of the Wisconsin Men's Christian Association was conducted this year during the week October 1st to 6th. Preparations are under way at the local Association and the membership committee, of which F. A. Blackman is chairman, are determined to let all citizens of the size of Janesville know that we are in the race.

The membership last year ran somewhat over the five hundred mark in spite of the fact that the Boys' Division was not at full-time secretary until near the holidays. Janesville ought not to fall below a membership of seven hundred and fifty, and even in this critical year the officers of the Association are very hopeful that this number will be reached.

The excellent work which this great organization is accomplishing among the soldiers and sailors is an accomplishment under unusual conditions of the war and purpose of every local Association. All of these things are greatly appreciated by the boys in Uncle Sam's service, and even more than these the Janesville Y. M. C. A. desires to do for the boys and young men at home.

The year ahead is a critical one for young men of draft age. Many of them will be taken before the reach of the local Association and will become the recipients of the services rendered by the army and navy secretaries, but scores and hundreds of other young men will remain at home and the local secretaries covet

ROCK "UBER ALLES."

Perhaps it is rank heresy to quote from a foreign language, but still there are many residents of Rock county who appreciate just what the term Rock "Uber Alles" means. Land no richer and more fertile land in the middle west. Land which long ago teemed in wheat fields, the crop of which was transported to the eastern market by way of the Great Lakes and the Erie canal, has again blossomed forth as a grain producing district. Not only did the wheat planted last fall mature, but also the spring planting more than repaid the grower who answered the call of the nation and planted one or more acres.

I'm a patriot, but damme If I ever call him Samny. I've ever said him Pappy. Peter, George, Billy, Eddie, Or give him a handle silly. That will make him out a gitte. He is full of pep and scrappy. BUILDING AMERICA'S GREAT ARMY

This unusual photo of a fine bunch of American soldier boys at play, building a human pyramid, is symbolic of the increase in the American army. The army has been "pyramiding" since the outbreak of the war, and is now immensely greater than before. According to Secretary Baker it will number two millions early in 1918.

THE VOICE IN THE GRATE.
We had lighted a fire in the grate... We sat in my easy chair to wait... For the riot of frolic and fun... That would come when the dishes were done... I was watching the blaze and smoke

When somebody suddenly spoke:

"It's a wonderful world after all!"

Though you're drunk of the sweat and the gall...

How often your soul has been glad!

What wonderful joys you have had!

As a freckle-faced, tousled-haired lad...

How often you managed to go

To the stream where the sad willows grow!

How rich with real pleasures and joys

Were the days when your comrades were boys!

An open confession is good for the soul.

Personally, we are at the end of a perfect fiscal year.

During the fiscal year we have written:

The great American novel.

The great American musical comedy.

The great American motion picture scenario.

The great American drama.

The great American war song.

None of them has been published, filmed, acted or sung.

During the next fiscal year we will stick to columnizing and let others do the "great American stuff." There isn't any money in it—the way we write.

They don't seem to want the good stuff any more. Ho-hum.

We have always wanted to have lunch with Irv Cobb because we know where Irv is, there shall some lunch be also. We often wonder if Irv does anything but lunch. Every time we meet one of our writer friends, said friends has just had lunch with Irv or is just going to lunch with Irv. Met one yesterday who had just had, and finished, afterward, a meal and who was just going to some day Hoover is going to get wise to Irv and it will be all off.

Mothers, sisters and sweethearts bidding the soldiers "Good-bye and Good Luck."

The cheers for the boys on their way to France have hardly been greater than the sympathy for mothers and sweethearts who are bidding them good-bye. So many homes are now feeling the same sorrow. Along the line of march there are always the women watching in pride and tears their sons and brothers march to the front.

Evansville News

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evanston, Sept. 24.—At the close of the opening week of school it is found that the enrollment is larger than that of last year or, in fact, any year in the school's history. The high school has an enrollment of one hundred and fifty boys and girls, grades more than five hundred. It is expected that more will enter during the next month, so that for the first week on two occasions finds the enrollment complete, for usually the number will be on the increase for the first month of school. There are boys who are still at work on farms who will enroll later. It was to be in readiness for a larger attendance that the two new buildings were erected and also a new teacher engaged for this year in the grades. The extra teacher classes charge a mixed fourth and fifth grade, where the congestion seemed the greatest. In many of the grades extra desks have had to be installed this week and in the high school main room many new seats had to be put in to accommodate the increased attendance. The work in all departments is progressing famously and both teachers and pupils are bucking hard for the year's work.

Tragic Death of Young Boy.

Evanston friends have received word of the tragic death of James, the thirteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hansen, who moved from Evansville a year ago to make their home in Evanston, Ill. The boy was in his coaster wagon in the street just above his home, delivering papers. In attempting to cross a street crossing he was struck by an automobile that had turned out to pass another car. The wheel of the auto struck him on the head, throwing him from his wagon and killing him instantly. The grief-stricken parents have the sympathy of their many friends here.

Red Cross Box Ready.

Saturday at the Red Cross headquarters another huge box of finished articles was packed and was shipped today. This consisted of capes, handkerchiefs, pajamas, socks, etc., and the shipment made was larger than that sent away in August. About the middle of next month the shipment sent from here will include knitted goods, scarfs, helmets, wristlets, sweaters, etc. Consequently everyone can see that knitting big and little, old and young. Many who have never learned the art of knitting are learning now so that they may do their bit. There is still plenty of sewing to be done, and with the sewing machines that have been donated each day find many willing workers at the city hall.

STREET CAR SYSTEM TIED UP BY STRIKE

NO SERVICE SINCE YESTERDAY MORNING AS RESULT OF UNION DEMANDS OF EMPLOYEES.

SEVEN MEN AFFECTED

May Resume Service Tomorrow or Before With New Men If Orders Come From Rockford.

Janesville is visited by a strike of the street railway employees. Car service in all parts of the city has been tied up since eight o'clock yesterday morning and may not be resumed until tomorrow. Seven employees, constituting the operating force, are taking part in the walkout, which is an offshoot from the more pretentious strike which occurred in Rockford yesterday.

According to William Murphy, local manager for the company, men will be secured from some place if the old employees do not come back to work. As yet no overtures have been made by either side, and arbitration does not seem likely. "I think the men back if they want to come but we'll recognize any union," said Mr. Murphy this afternoon. He declared that service on the local lines would be resumed with new men as soon as he received orders from Rockford.

Service in Rockford and the lines controlled by the Rockford company were tied up during most of Sunday when men of the company walked out. They demanded an increase in pay and a recognition of the union, with a dismissal of all men in the employ of the concern who were not union men. The operators agreed to a one cent per hour boost in the pay, despite the fact that they had been given two cent increase but a week before, and refused to conduct the line on a closed shop basis.

Representatives of the men met with the operators, the mayor, the chief of police and the city council of Rockford at one o'clock Sunday afternoon, to arrange a settlement of the difficulties. The men voted on the side of the company heads that the union would not be recognized, with the result that six of eight voted to return to work, and three voted were cast against returning to work under those conditions. The men had agreed to let the majority rule, but as yet there are a number of the men who have not returned. Service, however, is not radically impaired, and the interurbans are running on scheduled time.

With the moral courage given them by the strike of the Rockford employees, the seven local men walked out Sunday morning, and since that time have stayed out. Cars have ceased to run, but no disorder has been reported, no attempts to get together have been made, nor will they unless it is the desire of the men to upset the company's terms. Otherwise none may be taken on.

The men are getting on the average, thirty-five cents an hour, and it is believed that their strike is wholly to demand a recognition of the union. It is said that at Rockford they demanded the discharge of a few employees who had remained on duty when the rest struck. This was reflected with the statement that it would make anarchists of the innocent people thrown out of work.

MUNICIPAL JUDGE TRIES FIVE CASES

Two Negroes Sentenced For Assault and Battery—Three Appear For Breaking Paroles.

Judge Maxfield had a busy day in the municipal court this morning, disposing of five cases which entailed before him. Two negroes were brought before him on a charge of assault and battery and three prisoners on the charge of breaking their parole under the commitment law.

Philip Wilson and Herbert Green, both colored, had a regular old fashioned razor fight at the C. & N. W. railroad yards late Saturday afternoon with the result that they were arrested and brought before the judge to tell their story. Both were sent in the cinder pit and following a sharp exchange of words, Wilson claims he drew a vow he would kill him. The foreman attempted to intervene but the two decided to have the battle finished. Green hit Wilson twice on the head with his stone and Phillip retaliated by drawing a razor from his shoe and slashing his opponent, cutting a six-inch gash in his head.

Judge Maxfield decided to give Wilson four months in the county jail on a charge of assault and battery while Green was handed a fifty-dollar fine or the alternative of six months under the care of Sheriff Whipple. Both are making arrangements to pay their fine.

Pat Higgins, Edward Griffin and George Osterman were brought before the court by the sheriff on the charge of escaping from their commitment paroles. All three men were in the county jail on the charge of drunkenness and while working under the law decided to leave without leaving word of their departure. Higgins was set for tomorrow morning. Higgins was arrested in Evansville on a charge of drunkenness and when he was brought here to serve his sentence the court decided to prefer the commitment charge against him.

George Osterman and Edward Griffin were found guilty to the charge of escape, while under parole and were bound over under $300 bail until September 27 when they will be given their sentence. Griffin has been at large for several months and was captured in Beloit a few days ago.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

No army unit for service "somewhere in France" is equipped better against danger than the company which is making "Queen of the Sea," Annette Kellermann's new submarine spectacle, at Bar Harbor, Me.

Two pulmoxers are kept within reach, two local physicians are constantly within call, and there is always a diminutive Red Cross organization on the "location." Eleanor Shibley, trained nurse, is in charge.

The picturesque rocks surrounding Bar Harbor are extremely treacherous because they are as slippery as glass at the water's edge and are covered with barnacles sharper than the proverbial serpent's tooth. A fall is certain to result in a dozen razorlike cuts and scratches.

In addition to toniques, bandages, adhesive plaster, and restoratives, the training nurse has a supply of blankets and of hot coffee and tea to give to the chattering mermaids when they come from the icy waters. Bar Harbor is amazed at the mermaids' endurance, because the film folk can remain in the briny for hours.

To obtain accuracy in the settings and costumes, weeks were spent in research in the congressional library at Washington. It was necessary to look up plates and descriptions of the time of Alaric the Bold, Clovis, Hermann, Marlus, Sardanapolis and others of the tenth century.

OPERA SINGER IN MOVIELAND

Lillian Concord, well known in musical comedy circles, has been cast for the leading additional part in the new feature which the imitable Jane and Katherine Lee are making.

Miss Concord was with the forces of Andreas Diplop, light opera producer of note, for several seasons.

Stuart Sage, who has been in several plays, has also been added to the Lee Kiddies' cast.

Kenean Buel is directing the production.

Eugenie Forde and Marjorie Daw, famous on the shadow stage, have begun work in Hollywood, Cal., in a new picture starring Gladys Brockwell. Miss Forde was well known for her performances in the legitimate before she came to the films. She appeared for more than fifteen years with such footlight favorites as George Munroe, William Faversham and Chauncey Olcott.

Use Vinegar.

Use vinegar instead of water to mix your plaster of paris; the resultant mass will be like putty and will not "set" for 20 or 30 minutes, whereas, if you use water, the plaster will become hard almost immediately, before you have time to use it; push your "vinegar plaster" into the cracks and smooth it off nicely with a table knife.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-four years old and recently I have become engaged to a young man. We love each other dearly and I am sure we shall be happy together, but he teases me about being older than he is. When friends come in evenings to see us he tells them that I will be an old woman and like to sit by the hearth while he is still young and spirited. I know he is just joking, but he hurts my feelings very much. I want to ask him not to say such things, but I don't know just how to do it tactfully. What would you suggest? — GERTRUD H.

The young man says about the difference in your ages is really trifling, and you should have a sense of humor enough not to resent his remarks. Don't be hurt. Just because you are a year and two months older than he is couldn't possibly make any difference in your happiness, but the situation does give him a chance to be gay. Don't say anything to let him see that you are fair or lacking in a sense of humor.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A few nights ago I had a date to meet a young man at the corner drug store. We met there because we both have quite far to go and can't very well meet at my home except on Saturday night and Sunday. This night I had been talking to a girl friend of mine and she said, "Well, I'll meet you at the corner and when the boy arrives we'll meet up together." He suggested that both of us go with him to a picture show. After the show he took her home and I went with him and then he took me home. It's pretty little dress for a dollar.

The Business of Living

A Pampered Daughter of Ease Reveals the Dreadful Discomforts of Mountain Climbing

Tell us about your experience this summer! The ladies of the notorious Red Cross Knitting Club were in session in Eleanor's living room. "Mrs. Filmore says you had quite an exciting time while you were away."

Mrs. Weeks looked reproachfully at Eleanor. "It's exciting I think she means to refer to some one else or she is indulging in sarcasm."

"Well, I call sliding down a mountain exciting," said Mrs. Weeks.

"Do tell us about it," chorused the ladies.

"In the first place it was not a mountain, only a big hill, do not exaggerate. My sister-in-law is a friend of mine, Mrs. Weeks, and she would scale a ladder to the moon if that were possible. She is great on the golden rule, so if she enjoys anything she forthwith pokes it down the throats of everybody in her world."

"I have noticed that the golden rule often used to make people do terrible things," Mrs. Carr spoke with conviction.

"Everything else that I know about it takes imagination to use the golden rule," put in Eleanor.

"Achagndau! What do you mean?" asked Mrs. Black aggressively as she worked to pick up a dropped stitch in her knitting.

"If you cannot put yourself in your neighbor's shoes, you can't get along," Mrs. Spevarey said. "There was such a mix-up provoking expression that the laughter was contagious."

"Well, I'd like to hear about the mountain climbing," said Mrs. Black. Her knitting was going all right and she settled herself to listen.

"There isn't very much to tell," began Mrs. Weeks. "Carolyn, as I said, was fond of views, and so she proposed that we climb the high hill behind the shack to see the sunset. Now I do not object to views; indeed I like to look at a good sunset when

NUTRITION AND STIMULATION

"I was much impressed," writes a kind business man, "by your statement in the paper that food taken into the stomach first acts as a stimulant and that the real food effect is not felt for perhaps three or four days. This opens up to me the question: What is stimulation and how does food stimulate in advance of digestion? I expect such digestion as is completed by the acids in the mouth."

The correspondent attributes to us a much more sweeping statement than was actually made. We simply stated that the sense of well-being or strength feels immediately after eating meat is due to the stimulants extracted from the meat, not to the actual meat to be derived from the meat. It takes a few days for the nutrient to be assimilated and utilized by the body for the production of energy. As far as other foods are concerned, we cannot say that any appreciable stimulation is produced. The stimulation produced by meat extractives is the principle upon which is based the use of meat broths in the sickroom and meat soups on the ordinary menu. Not only appetite, but the nervous system and circulation are stimulated by meat extractives.

Now one of an inquisitive nature took two dogs of equal weight and condition, starved one and allowed the other nothing but occasional small quantities of clear meat broth. He soon discovered the meat broth contained first, because his energies were earlier exhausted by stimulation. That experiment teaches two important lessons. First, that meat extractives stimulate; and second, that stimulation may easily exhaust the limited reserve of energy and thus more harm than good in the long run.

Now if there is one sound principle

EASY LESSONS IN FRENCH

FOR THE SOLDIER BOYS WHO GO TO FRANCE.

This short series of easy lessons in French will interest not only the soldiers but others who wish to secure the rudiments of the language at this time.

Lesson No. 9.
MONEY AND MEASURES; TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH.

KNOWLEDGE of the simple French currency system, with its 100 centimes to the franc (worth 19.3 cents before the war), and of the decimal metric system is fairly well distributed among Americans, but those who are not familiar with them will find the following useful. Some telephone and telegraph phrases are also given:

A kilogram, generally called kilo-keew-lou-is about two pounds three ounces.

A litre—leetr—-is about one and three-quarter pints, or one-fifth of a gallon.

Millimetre—mee-y-maytr—equals .039 inches.

Centimetre—son-ti-maytr—equals .393 inches.

Metre equals 39.37 inches, or about 3.3 feet.

Kilometre equals .021 miles, or about five-eighths of a mile.

Litre—lee-yu—or four kilometers, equals about two and one-half miles.

Mile equals 1,600 kilometers.

Five centimes—sank son-teen—equal about one cent.

The Livre—leevr—which equals one pound, is still used in France.

PHRASES.

Given first in English, second in French, third the pronunciation:

What is the distance? Quelle est la distance?

How much does that cost a pound? Combien ça coûte la livre? Kum-been sah koot la leevr?

Telephone, telephone, pronounced about us in English.

Teletograph, telegraphe, pronounced about us in English.

Where is the telephone? Où est le téléphone? Oh eh leh telephone?

Hello—allo—alo.

I am listening—J'écoute—Zeh koot.

A little louder—Un peu plus fort—Ung pu (as in but) più for.

A little softer—Un peu moins fort—Ung pu (as in but) mwaa for.

A telegraph blank—Une feuille de télégramme—in tuy du (as in but) telegram.

I cannot speak French—Je ne puis parler français—Zeh neh pwee pah par-leh frans-fray.

I need—J'ai besoin de—Zheh bez-wan du (as in but).

Where is—on est—no eh: where are—ou sont—oo son.

How much?—Combien?—Kum-been.

Too much—trop—troh.

All right—très bien—treh-been.

trouble. My doctor, who does some throat and nose work, thought it was disease of the antrum (is that the right name for the uppermost bone?) He sent me to a specialist out of town, who took an X-ray picture and said it must be neuralgia. It is always painful if I have a head cold. Do you think it is sinusitis?

Answer—Your local doctor may still be right, for a catarrhal sinusitis may show nothing abnormal in the X-ray plate, yet cause much pain. One guess is that you suffer repeated mild attacks of trouble in the antrum. Leave the treatment to your doctor. It can help you.

Diagnosing Tuberculosis.

Can tuberculosis of the lungs be positively diagnosed without finding the bacilla in the sputum?

Answer—Yes, by any good physician.

JANESVILLE WOMAN IN BIG TEMPERANCE DEBATE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee, Sept. 24.—"Resolved, That statewide prohibition is a more vital question today than the ballot for women."

This subject was scheduled for debate at 2 o'clock today in the program of the annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The affirmative was supported by Mrs. Lila H. Atwater of Clintonville, Mrs. Ethel Clegg of Janesville, Mrs. V. H. Campbell of Milwaukee and Miss Bell Ady of Sparta supported the negative.

The annual election of officers was also scheduled for today.

HERE'S APPETIZING MENU FOR FAMILIES FOR MEATLESS DAY

INGENIOUS MENU OF DISHES TO BE SERVED ON MEATLESS DAY WITH SOME NEW RECIPES.

Tomorrow, the second meatless day under the proclamation issued by Magnus Swenson, food administrator for Wisconsin, and the first so far as any general observance of the day is concerned, will see not only the majority of Janesville public eating places, but a great many families eliminating all meat from the daily meal.

Throughout the state investigations reveal that the people are falling into the spirit of the conservation movement, and are willing to do their share in saving meat for the soldiers. Inquiries as to what to serve in place of meat are frequent, and a menu, both suitable and appetizing for meatless day is published here together with a few receipts for the loyal housewife.

Menu for Tuesday

A MEATLESS DAY
Breakfast.

Shredded Wheat or Oat Meal

Graham Muffins

Coffee (for children.)

Lunch or Supper.

Scalloped Rice and Cheese

Baked Pears.

Dinner.

Vegetable Soup (if desired)

Salmon Loaf

Creamed Potatoes

Baked Tomatoes

Apple Tapioca Pudding.

Vegetable Soufflé.

1/4 cup carrots, 1/4 cup turnip, 1/4 cup celery, 1/4 cup potato, 1/4 onion, 1 quart water, 5 tablespoons butter (or other fat), 1/2 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, salt and pepper.

Wash and pare small carrot; cut in thirds lengthwise; cut strips thus made in thin slices crosswise. Wash and pare half a turnip, and cut and slice same as carrot. Wash, pare, and cut potatoes in small pieces. Wash and scrape celery and cut in quarter-inch pieces. Prepare vegetables except potato, add carrots, cover, and boil one hour until vegetables are soft. Add remaining butter and parsley. Season with salt and pepper.

Salmon Loaf.

One can of salmon, four tablespoons of milk, two eggs, two tablespoons of melted butter, or other fat, one-half cup of bread crumbs, speck of pepper, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon of chopped parsley. Rub butter into salmon, put crumbs into beaten eggs, mix all together, season, steam one hour, or bake 20 minutes.

Sauce. One cup of milk, two tablespoons of cornstarch, one tablespoon of butter, juice from the salmon, pinch of salt. Cook until it thickens and serves with salmon.

Baked Tomatoes.

Wipe six smooth, medium-sized tomatoes. Cut out stem, making small hole. Mix one-half cup of bread crumbs, season with salt and pepper and a few drops of onion juice, and place in tomatoes with mixture. Place in a buttered pan, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and bake 30 minutes in a hot oven.

Two tablespoons, each, chopped green pepper and onion are an improvement.

Apple Tapioca Pudding.

1/4 cup pearl or 1/2 cup minute tapioca, cold water, 3 cups boiling water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 7 sour apples, 1/4 cup sugar.

Soak tapioca one hour in cold water and drain, add boiling water and salt; cook in double boiler until transparent. Core and pare apples, arrange in buttered pudding dish, fill cavities with sugar, pour over tapioca, and bake in moderate oven until tapioca is set. Serve with sugar and cream. Minute tapioca requires no soaking.

Elderberry Wine (without bottling).

—Elderberry juice, five quarts; sugar, fifteen pounds; water. Extract the juice from dried ripe berries with fruit press. Into the keg put the above amount of sugar dissolved in the juice. Be sure the sugar is thoroughly dissolved before putting in keg. Fill the remaining space with water. Rack off in February and wash keg, in which you will be bottled.

PETEY DINK—HENRIETTA DIDN'T QUITE CATCH THE NAME.

The Hillman

By

E. PHILLIPS OPENHEIM
Author of "The Double Traitor,"
"The Master Mummer," etc.

(Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co.)

"No, I won't come in, thanks," he declared. "You have so little time to rest and get ready for the theater."

"You will be there tonight?" she asked.

He laughed as if there were humor in the suggestion of his absence.

"Of course!"

He slipped in his clutch and drove off through the rain-drenched streets with the smile and air of a conqueror. Louise passed into her little room to find a visitor waiting for her there.

Eugene, petrue of Syre, had spent the early part of that afternoon in a manner wholly strange to him. In pursuance of an order given to his major-domo immediately on his return from his club after lunch, the great reception rooms of Syre House, the picture gallery and the ballroom were prepared as if for a reception. Dust-sheets were swept aside, masterpieces of painting and sculpture were uncovered, the soft brilliance of concealed electric lights lit up many dark corners.

He was forty-one years old that day, and the few words which John had spoken to him barely an hour ago had made him realize that there was only one thing in life that he desired. The sight of his treasures merely soothed his vanity. It left empty and unsatisfied his ruder and deeper desire of living. He told himself that his time had come. Others of his race had paid a great price for the things they had coveted in life. He, too, must follow their example.

He was in Louise's drawing-room when she returned—Louise, with hair and cheeks a little damp, but with a wonderful light in her eyes and with footsteps that seemed to fall upon air.

"Some tea and a bath this moment, Aline!" she called out, as she ran lightly up the stairs. "Never mind about dinner. I am so late. I will have some tea. Be quick!"

"Madame—" Aline began.

"Don't bother me about anything now," Louise interrupted. "I will throw my things off while you get the ready."

She stepped into her little room, throwing off her cloak as she entered. Then she stopped short, almost upon the threshold. The prince had risen to his feet.

"Eugene!"

He came toward her. Even as he stooped to kiss her fingers, his eyes seemed to take in her disheveled condition, the little patches of color in her cheeks, the radiant happiness which shone in her eyes.

"I am not an unwelcome intruder, I hope," he said. "But how wet you are!"

The fingers which he released fell nervously to her side. She stood looking at him as if confronted with a sudden nightmare. It was as if this new-found life were being slowly drained from her veins.

"You are overdriven," he murmured, leading her with solicitude toward an easy chair. "One would imagine, from your appearance, that I was the bane of some terrible tidings. Let me assure you that it is not so."

He spoke with his usual deliberation, but she seemed powerless to recover herself. She was still dazed and white. She sank into the chair and looked at him.

"Nothing, I trust," he went on, "has happened to distract you?"

"Nothing at all," she declared hastily. "I am tired. I ran upstairs perhaps a little too quickly. Aline had not told me that there was anyone here."

"I had a fancy to see you this afternoon," the prince explained, "and finding you out, I took the liberty of waiting. If you would rather I went away and came for you later, please do not hesitate to say so."

"Of course not," she exclaimed. "I do not know why I should have been so silly. Aline, take my coat and well," she directed, turning to the maid, who was lingering at the other end of the room. "I am not wet. Serve some tea in here. I will have my bath later, when I change to go to the theater."

She spoke bravely, but fear was in her heart. She tried to tell herself that this visit was a coincidence, that it meant nothing, but all the time she knew otherwise.

The door closed behind Aline, and they were alone. The prince, as if anxious to give her time to recover herself, walked to the window and stood for some moments looking out.

"Assert it, then," she cried defiantly. "Do what you will. Go to him this minute, if you have courage enough, if it seems to you well. Claim, indeed! Right! I have the one right every woman in the world possesses—to give herself, body and soul, to the man she loves! That is the only claim and the only right I recognize, and I am giving myself to him, when he wants me, forever!"

She stopped suddenly. Neither of them had heard a discreet knock at the door. Aline had entered with the tea. There was a moment of silence.

"Put it down here by my side, Aline," her mistress ordered, "and show the prince Syre out."

Aline held the door open. For a single moment the prince hesitated. Then he picked up his hat and bowed.

"Perhaps," he said, "this may not be the last word!"

honor of becoming my wife."

She turned her head very slowly until she was looking him full in the face. Her lips were a little parted, her eyes a little strained. The prince was leaning toward her in a conventional attitude; his words had been spoken simply and in his usual conversational manner. There was something about him, however, profoundly convincing.

"Your wife?" Louise repeated.
"If you will do me that great honor or—"

It seemed at first as if her nerves were strained to the breaking-point. The situation was one with which her brain seemed unable to grapple. She set her teeth tightly. Then she had a sudden interlude of wonderful clear-sightedness. She was like a child with the shadow of some fear hanging over her.

He laughed and held her tightly to him.

Her lips sought his and clung to them. A queer little wave of passion seemed to have seized her. Half crying, half laughing, she pressed her face against his. "I do not want the act tonight. I do not want to play, even to the most wonderful audience in the world. I do not want to shake hands with many hundreds of people at that hateful reception. I think I want nothing else in the world but to teach the ensuing year."

She lay, for a moment, passive in his arms. He smoothed her hair and kissed her tenderly. Then he led her back to her place upon the couch. Her emotional mood, while it flattered him, did nothing to quiet the little demons of unrest that pulled, every now and then, at his heartstrings.

"What is this reception?" he asked. She made a little grimace.

"And the sequel to this?" he asked. "I have promised to marry John Strangewey," she told him.

"That?" he replied. "Is impossible? I have a prior claim."

The light of battle flamed suddenly in her eyes. Her nervousness had gone. She was a strong woman, face to face with him now, taller than he, seeming, indeed, to tower over him in the splendor of her anger. She was like a lioness threatened with the loss of the one dear thing.

Her self-control suddenly gave way. She threw herself back in her chair. She began to laugh and stopped abruptly, the tears streaming from her eyes. The prince leaned forward. He took her hands in his, but she drew them away.

"You are too late, Eugene!" she said. "I almost loved you. I was almost yours to do whatever you liked with. But somehow, somewhere, notwithstanding all your worldly knowledge and mine, we missed it. We do not know the truth about life, you and I—at least you do not and I did not."

He rose very slowly to his feet. There was no visible change in his face save a slight whitening of the cheeks.

"And the sequel to this?" he asked. "I have promised to marry John Strangewey," she told him.

"That?" he replied. "Is impossible? I have a prior claim."

The light of battle flamed suddenly in her eyes. Her nervousness had gone. She was a strong woman, face to face with him now, taller than he, seeming, indeed, to tower over him in the splendor of her anger. She was like a lioness threatened with the loss of the one dear thing.

"I say," said the office boy to the cashier, "I think the guv'nor ought to give me a dollar extra this week, but I suppose he won't."

"What for?" asked the cashier.

"For overtime. I wuz dreamin' about my work all last night."

An Italian officer who was wounded in the Trentino brought an action this summer to obtain a decision as to the rightful ownership of a bullet extracted from his body. Both doctor and nurse claimed it, but the officer contended that it was legally his. The judge gave the decision in the officer's favor by a novel line of argument.

He found that the projectile, once discharged from the gun, ceased both to belong to the man who fired it and the country which intrusted it to him. It thus became, while on its way to its billet, a res nullius which any finder is entitled to pick up and keep. The officer found it in his body. It was only brought to light by the surgeon assisted by the nurse. Hence the officer was entitled to keep it.

Victor Marshall, at a luncheon at Atlantic City, was condemning the kaiser.

"From the time he mounted the throne," he said, "from the time he ousted Bismarck and imprisoned his own mother in a castle he showed what a dangerous bully he was."

"More likely," said the widow, "he's hittin' the angels with the harp."

SOUTHWEST LIMA

Southwest Lima, Sept. 22.—This community was greatly shocked Saturday morning upon learning of the death of Mr. McCallen, who shot and killed himself Friday morning.

Mr. McCallen left the house early and was intending to build a fence. When he did not return at dinner time they went in search of him and found that he had shot himself with a revolver.

"I thought it might worry you," she simply waited and watched.

"I have come to a certain determination," he proceeded; "one which, if you will grace it with your approval, will give me great happiness. I ask you to forget certain things which have passed between us. I have come to you today to beg you to do me the

WHO WILL BE HERO OF WORLD'S SERIES?

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE
New York, Sept. 24.—Some youth, probably languishing now on a bench, is going to find his name blazoned throughout the country before long. Somebody now wearing a Giants or a White Sox uniform is going to be proclaimed a hero.

Every world's series has had its hero from the very start of the thing to the finish at day. Sometimes he is more of a hero than at others, but always he inculcates himself into the scheme of things.

Who of the present generation of fans will ever forget the brilliant 1909 achievement of Babe Adams in winning the world's series from Detroit almost single-handed for the Athletics.

Likewise, what generation of sportsmen will pause to ask why Frank Baker won his title of "Home Run Baker?"

Joe Bush of the Athletics, George Rehe of the White Sox, have had their hero days.

Bush, a green kid, stopped the Giants dead and made it possible for his team to win the world's championship. The day after, at the same time, the White Sox, when they met the Cubs in the world's series, and although the Cubs' attack was centered on this youth, he finished with a brilliant fielding record and an astounding batting record.

Harry Hooper, one day in 1912, ran back to the ropes that held the crowd off the playing field in the final of the 1912 world's series. Larry Dosey had cracked one hard enough for a home run, but Hooper, by a marvelous jump and a stab into the crowd, caught the ball and plunged headlong into the crowd. He saved the ball game.

Hank Gowdy got so many hits in the world's series that he was constantly talking about it in Boston and would ring wild for Hank, before that and after, has only been a so-so hitter, never doing more than just ordinary execution with his maul.

TY COBB HAS INCOME OF $50,000 ANNUALLY

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE
Detroit, Sept. 24.—Detroit sportswriters have concluded that Tyrus Cobb is earning something like $50,000 a year. In addition to drawing a salary of about $20,000 a season from the Detroit baseball club, he is interested in several business ventures, including a motion picture company. He has signed a contract to distribute a certain beverage through southern territory this autumn and winter, and it is claimed that he is connected with five figures. And other interests such as bank stock, real estate, help to swell the Georgia's bank roll.

ILLINOIS FOOTBALL TEAM HARD AT WORK

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE
Urbana, Ill., Sept. 24.—Coach Zuppke of the University of Illinois football team is not making any boasts for championship aggregation for this year, as the way has made great strides in what is the close of last season was expected to be one of Illinois' best teams.

Zuppke is depending on Kraft, left end; Kundzak, tackle; and Schlaudmann, center. Word has been received that Leo Kish, the star right end, will not return, and Sharpie, guard, is considered doubtful.

field and outfield of his youngsters, became veteran battery, met the veterans, usually supported by a pony battery, each day for five innings prior to the regularly scheduled championship game. Later, when the cots have been thoroughly schooled to metropolitan conditions, they will replace the veterans against the common enemy.

The officers in training at Plattburg are to be honored with the first game between the veterans and the recruit line-ups of the Yankees. Colonel Ruppert has made two arrangements to send his two teams to the safety and training encampment for an exhibition game soon. He is going along to see that his players put as much spirit into this exhibition as would be expected in a world's series.

Jack Kearns, the youthful Pacific coast promoted and manager, has a new heavyweight, second and Jack Dempsey, "Submarine Destroyer," Dempsey, they call him on the coast, and according to Kearns, he is more dangerous than the best of the subchasers. Dempsey won his last ten fights via the knockout route. He has beaten Al Norton in one round and disposed of Willie Meacham and many others. He is not a mauling, grunting fighter, but rather a spectacular boxer who is clever with his mitts, shifty on his feet, and can hit hard with both hands.

The best thing about Dempsey, however, is the fact that he is not claiming for a battle with Jess Willard right away. He wants to take on Fulton, Moran, or some of the other champions first. This will be the talk of meeting Willard, says the coast boxer. That's the kind of chatter for a would-be champion to spill.

McGRAW'S CHOICE FOR FIRST GAME

Rube Benton.

Rube Benton looks almost sure to be an important performer in the world series this fall. The Giants have put a great deal of dependence on the large southpaw all through the season and McGraw has implied that Rube will have the honor of pitching the first game.

"Why, Helen!" said auntie. "When did you ever see a gentleman strike a lady?"

"With an air of convincing proof the little maid replied, "Why, my daddy spanks me!"—Christian Herald.

LEADS HIS LEAGUE ON INITIAL SACK

Hal Chase.

Hal Chase has had a great year with the Cincinnati Reds, and is desired by competent critics to be the best first baseman in the National league. Many regard him as the leading initial sacker in baseball. In addition to being a great fielder, he ranks among the best batters in either league.

LOUIS CHEVROLET WINS SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

New York, Sept. 24.—The 100-mile automobile race for the Harkness gold trophy at Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, was won by Louis Chevrolet, Time 54:29.28, a new American record. The former speedway record 58:57.72, was made on the same track in 1916 by Darlo Resta. De Palma was second.

GOOD RESULTS FROM CANCELING TRAINS

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Highly satisfactory results from rearrangement of passenger train schedules and runs in the fifteen states of the central department are noted in a report made public here today by G. H. Ashton, chairman of the committee of the central department of the Railroads.

Passenger service was curtailed for the sole object of conserving man power, fuel and locomotives for the more important war work, and Mr. Ashton's report shows that the saving amounts to 9,201,327 train miles a year. Thus far the economies are at the rate per annum of 1,660 men, 98,393 tons of coal, 204,097 barrels of oil and 321 locomotives.

In most cases where a train was annulled, additional coaches were added to other trains," says the report. "In some cases mixed trains were found able to render adequate service. In other cases more stopping places were added to the schedules of regular passenger trains."

It was found impracticable to discontinue any of the trans-continental passenger trains.

FORM EMPLOYEES BENEFIT AS SMALL SAVINGS BANK

Neenah, Wis., Sept. 24.—In order to conform to the state banking laws, the Neenah Paper Company Savings and Profit Sharing plan is being organized as a mutual savings bank, to be known as the Neenah Paper Company Employees Savings Bank. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the commission of banking at Madison.

ONLY A LADY IN THE MAKING.
Five-year-old Freddy often showed pugilistic tendencies. One day he had been using his fists on three-year-old sister Helen. His visiting auntie said: "Freddy, don't you know that a gentleman never strikes a lady?"

Instantly Helen stopped crying and exclaimed, "They do too."

"Why, Helen!" said auntie. "When did you ever see a gentleman strike a lady?"

"With an air of convincing proof the little maid replied, "Why, my daddy spanks me!"—Christian Herald.
